

Criticisms

- > Individualism and altruism are not in contradiction, we can balance them.
- > Rule-fetishism was not so popular, many criticized and analysed this approach.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HlDflecVQG8>

CHAPTER EIGHT

Why should we obey the law?

25/10

We need to move from legality (formal legitimacy) to legitimacy (substantial legitimacy).
From individual to collective (society).

- I can obey because I am afraid of the consequences. But when is punishment right or wrong? For example, a 1000 euros fine can be much for someone but nothing for some others.
- I can obey because I think that laws are the best way to organize society.

LEGAL	ILLEGAL
MORAL   (formal and substantial legitimacy)	▲ (formal illegitimacy and substantial legitimacy)
NOT MORAL   ▲ (formal but not substantial legitimacy)	(formal and substantial illegitimacy)

▲ = Problem

Why should we obey laws that are legal but not moral and something that is illegal but moral?

IS THERE AN OBLIGATION TO OBEY THE LAW?

Legal reasoning:

A

B